Elit Group of Companies is a multi-generational contract furniture group operating in the furniture industry since 1984, built on strong manufacturing roots and driven by international project delivery.

The foundations of the group were laid in 1984 with the establishment of Erdem, the family's original manufacturing company. What began as small-scale production gradually evolved into a fully integrated manufacturing structure. Today, Erdem continues to operate as the production backbone of the group, focusing exclusively on furniture manufacturing, craftsmanship, and industrial capability.

In 2002, Elit Office Furniture and Elit Contract Furniture were established to manage project development, sales, and international operations. While Erdem remains responsible for production, Elit represents the commercial and global face of the group, leading all domestic and international contract furniture projects.

Elit is primarily specialized in the HoReCa sector, delivering fixed and loose furniture solutions for hotels, restaurants, cafés, and hospitality-driven environments. In addition, the group supports offices, educational facilities, public buildings, and residential developments through a structured, project-based approach.

Today, Elit Group is led by the third generation, combining decades of manufacturing heritage with contemporary design thinking, disciplined project management, and a strong B2B mindset.

Sustainability Objectives

Elit integrates sustainability into its production and operational processes through measurable and structured practices. The company prioritizes the use of responsible and traceable materials, aiming to increase material efficiency and reduce waste across all product lines.

Manufacturing processes are continuously optimized to improve energy efficiency and reduce carbon emissions. Product design focuses on durability, long lifecycle performance, and ease of maintenance, supporting long-term use in contract environments.

Elit also adopts circular design principles by considering recyclability and material recovery at the end of a product's lifecycle. Water usage and resource consumption are monitored and minimized where possible, ensuring controlled and responsible production standards.

The Process.

1

Understand.

We begin by reviewing the project brief, BOQs, specifications, drawings, or visual references.

When required, we support the process by clarifying needs, aligning expectations, and defining project priorities together with our partners.

Design.

Design intent is translated into production-ready solutions through technical drawings, material selection, and detailed coordination.

Our approach balances aesthetics, functionality, and durability, ensuring designs respond to real operational requirements.

Produce.

Within our 25,000 m² manufacturing facility, raw materials enter our factory and leave as fully finished furniture products.

Wood, metal, and upholstery are produced in-house using advanced technology, skilled craftsmanship, and continuous quality control.

Collaborate.

Throughout the process, we work closely with architects, contractors, and procurement teams. Clear communication and coordination ensure smooth progress across all stages of the project.

Deliver.

From logistics to on-site installation, every step is managed with accuracy and care. Projects are delivered in line with agreed timelines, ensuring reliable execution and long-term performance.
